29 Kumahira Co., Ltd.

We started our business with safes for financial institutions, and with over 120 years of history, we have leveraged our expertise in physical security. Today, we develop and manufacture comprehensive security systems, including access control systems, security gates, surveillance camera systems, and liquid inspection devices. Visitors can tour our latest security equipment, such as security gates and surveillance camera systems, and view our top-of-the-line large vault doors, including the 'Mammoth Vault Door' and older vault doors we have previously manufactured. Additionally, our staff members are available to answer any technical questions upon request.

30 Sanko Denryo Co., Ltd. (Robot Park Hiroshima)

At "Robot Park Hiroshima," we present an exhibition space based on the concept of "Inspiring the chance to shape your ideas," where we offer solutions through robotic systems. Visitors can explore robotic systems designed to automate real-world work processes. Our exhibition features robots capable of complex movements, such as "vertical articulated robots," and "collaborative robots" that can work alongside humans, as well as essential peripheral devices for robotic systems. Additionally, we offer the opportunity for visitors to engage in discussions with our staff based on their specific requests.

32 Kagura

Kagura is a traditional performing art that has been passed down through generations as part of religious festivals. Hiroshima Prefecture is renowned for its deep-rooted Kagura culture, with nearly 300 Kagura teams throughout the region. There are five main styles of Kagura in the prefecture, including Geihoku Kagura, which gained nationwide recognition for its magnificence, swiftness and flamboyance. Spectators can enjoy the stunning costumes, the rhythmic sounds of drums and flutes performed by the musicians, and the energetic, expressive dances. Additionally, some Kagura teams offer experiences such as trying on costumes and photo sessions, allowing for customized arrangements that will delight conference participants.
